

Seven Local Grant Recipients

Santa Monica, CA (September, 2012)—The William H. Hannon Foundation has recently provided grants to seven organizations on the Westside of Los Angeles.

Grant recipients include:

The Airport Marina Counseling Service (AMCS) in Westchester, where the Foundation has renewed its support of the highly effective Hannon Intermediate Intervention Program. AMCS provides affordable community-based health services and trains mental health therapists.

CLARE Foundation in Santa Monica has received a grant to support its new Women's Treatment Program. CLARE began in the late 1960s and today is a leader in the successful residential and outpatient addiction treatment throughout LA County.

Friends of Playa Vista School (FPVS) is a group of parents who have joined together to support the new K-5 school at Playa Vista, which opened its doors on August 14. FPVS received a grant to help pay for a library media specialist.

Loyola Marymount University (LMU), located in Westchester, is the only Jesuit University in Southern California. LMU received a contribution towards its Chancellor Scholarships Program to help students from Jesuit prep schools attend LMU.

OPCC in Santa Monica received continued financial support to help homeless mentally ill women. For almost fifty years, OPCC has provided support to homeless and at-risk men, women, and children and is the largest human services provider on the Westside of Los Angeles.

Otis College of Art and Design in Westchester, the first professional school of art in Los Angeles, received a grant for 2012-2013 student scholarship support.

St. Joseph Center in Venice received a grant for the Foundation's continued support of the agency's Family Center and Food Pantry. Founded in 1976, St. Joseph Center now serves 6,000 people annually through comprehensive case management and integrated social service programs.
